

23 JANUARY 2018CIMIC'S CPB CONTRACTORS WINS $84M SYDNEY RECREATION CENTRE

CIMIC Group company, CPB Contractors, has been selected by the City of Sydney to design and construct the Gunyama Park Aquatic and Recreation Centre, the largest pool complex to be built in the city since the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games.

The project, situated within the City of Sydney's new Green Square precinct, will generate revenue of approximately $84 million to CPB Contractors.

Construction is expected to commence in 2018 and conclude in late 2019.

CIMIC Group Chief Executive Officer Michael Wright: "CPB Contractors' market-leading capabilities in major sports and social infrastructure strongly position us to deliver a world class, vibrant and socially-inclusive facility for the City of Sydney and local communities."

CPB Contractors Managing Director Juan Santamaria said: "Our team has both the local and international expertise and project experience to deliver significant value for our client.

"Our flexible, multipurpose design will ensure that Gunyama is able to host a variety of activities, welcome locals and visitors from across Sydney, and remain adaptable to the city's future growth requirements and sustainability expectations."

Gunyama Park Aquatic and Recreation Centre works includes a 50m heated outdoor pool set within a larger, irregular shaped beach pool, 25m heated indoor and leisure pool, skate bowl and fitness training circuit, and multipurpose sports field gym, cafe and crèche.
